

Want to Play?

October, November, and December 2008 game lineup in 5-Spot, on your credit union's web site:

Before you go to sleep at night, do you check under the bed for monsters? Bet you never saw any. But what if you did? Fortunately, you're prepared. Use your trusty flashlight to search for hidden ghouls. Watch out, you might find one!

The Blocktopus is an 11-armed creature that communicates by building things out of blocks. What is the Blocktopus talking about? There's only one way to find out — Decipher his bizarre sculptures!

Kooking With Kooks

The Kooks aren't the best cooks in the world, and they often add incorrect ingredients to their menu. Watch their crazy recipes fly by!

NATALIE

The Alias in Me

A 6:15 am phone call jolts me out of a sound sleep. On the line a recording offers me the assignment.

I never know who I will become, which skills I'll need, or how long the assignment lasts.

I can decline, but they need me. If I accept, I have to complete the task.

Remembering the voice, my mind runs a checklist:

- Proper clothes;
- Sunglasses;
- First aid kit;
- Kleenex.

There's more: laptop, cell phone, pencils, pens, tablet, food and drink. Sometimes my adventures require something additional. Today I need my GPS locator.

I need to know current events and I often speak French. I have to use an interpreter when speaking with individuals from Ghana, El Salvador and Vietnam.

Occasionally my work sends me into situations that are downright dangerous.

Who am I?
